One identity. Every placement.

Refined geometry, clear spacing, and scalable artwork.

Choose the right signature

Primary horizontal

Use for prominent website sections, proposals, slide covers and print.

Compact horizontal

Use for narrow navigation bars, email signatures and smaller placements.

Stacked signature

Use in square layouts where the full brand name should remain visible.

Symbol only

Use for avatars, app icons, favicons and other small square placements.

Color variants

Primary uses navy lettering on a light surface. Reverse retains the blue-violet symbol with white lettering. Black, white and blue versions use one color.

Placement and legibility

- Keep external clear space at least one I-stem width around the artwork.
- Use the full descriptor at 400 px wide or larger. Use compact below that.
- Use the symbol for very small placements. Favicons have a wider inner gap.
- For a 320 px display, use a 640 px image for high-density screens.
- Repository preview respects the supplied template safe area.
- Keep proportions unchanged. Avoid shadows and additional outlines.

Production notes

SVG and logo PDF masters contain vector paths with outlined lettering. PNG and JPEG print exports carry 300 ppi metadata; 4800 px equals 16 inches at 300 ppi. Digital colors are RGB. Ask the printer to convert using the intended stock and press profile. Use single-color masters for engraving or embroidery.
